

For CLTS support & service coordinators and providers

Technology that supports independence through Wisconsin's CLTS Waiver Program

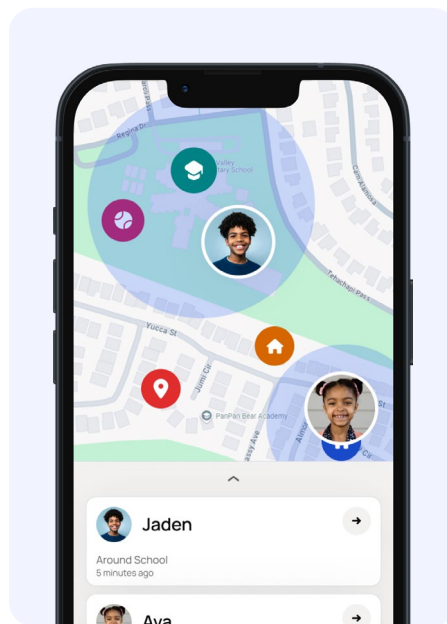

The Bark Phone and Bark Watch are approved through Wisconsin's Children's Long-Term Support (CLTS) Waiver Program. Bark devices can support care plan goals related to health and safety, community participation, communication, and increasing independence.

AREAS OF SUPPORT

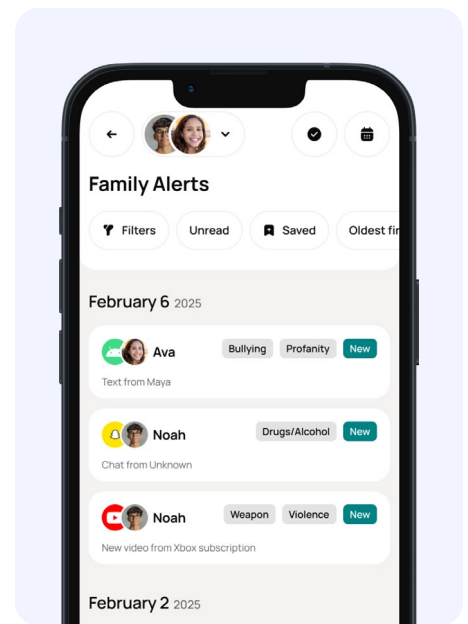

Independence & daily living skills

Supports routines, self-management, communication, transportation planning, and responsible technology use while gradually increasing independence based on individual goals.

Physical safety

Real-time alerts, GPS location, emergency features, contact management, and AI-powered monitoring help reduce risk and support health and safety plans when concerns arise.

Safe community participation

Help children and young adults safely participate in school, work, recreation, relationships, and their communities while caregivers maintain appropriate visibility and support.
